

Help us better understand the treatment decision-making needs of people with problematic alcohol use and depression.

Have you experienced problematic alcohol use AND depression? Have you had to decide on your early intervention and treatment options?

Researchers at the University of Sydney want to hear from people who have experienced (or are currently experiencing) problematic alcohol use and depression about the difficulties they face when making decisions about early interventions and treatment options, and strategies for better supporting these decisions.

For more information and take part in the online survey, go to:

https://sydney.au1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_dmVduCkSapoDRIP

